The party of visitors numbering 37 in all came in a special car attached to the through train due here at 9:38 and immediately went to the glass plant. An inspection of the methods of glass making and of the electrical appliances at the factory was made.

In the list of visitors were professors of technical departments of various schools. Among others Columbia University, Yale, the University of Washington and the University of Kansas were represented. The party came here from the Westinghouse plant at Pittsburg, where they have been engaged in electrical work. The party returned to Pittsburg on the noon train.

WOMAN WHO DISAPPEARED FOUND ALIVE AND WELL

Search for Mrs. Mary Bougieu, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goazion with the aid of the police since Friday morning bore fruit this afternoon when news reached Mr. Goaziou that she was with a family near the Thirteenth street car barn. With Chief of Police C. W. Albright he went there to bring her back to his home, where she has been staying for some time. It is supposed the heat of the last few days and illness had preyed upon Mrs. Bougieu's mind resulting in her complete disappearance for a time.

ODD FELLOWS HOSTS VISIT AT CALIFORNIA

Past Grand Meeting of Washington Countians Attracts Large Number To Normal Town—Chief Address By Wayside Inn President

Odd Fellows from all parts of Washington county gathered at California Friday evening to attend the quarterly meeting of the Wasaington County Past Grands Association and to participate in the first housewarming at the new California Odd Fellows' building.

A parade in which from 500 to 600 persons participated was a feature of the evening's celebration. It was led by a brass band, with Rebeckas following. The Monongahela Valley Canton headed by the Veteran Guard Drum Corps of Charleroi marched next, followed in order by visiting brothers, old folk and L. K. White, president of the Odd Fellows Wayside Inn. Then came the Californians headed by the proverbial goat.

The address of welcome was made by J. A. Reed. William Coatsworth presided. The chief address of the evening was made by L. K. White.

GLASS PLANTS TO SUSPEND MONDAY

Imperial Factories Here and at California to Close for Summer Vacation

DEMANDS FOR WARE KEEP UP

The Charleroi plant of the Imperial Glass Company, as well as that at California, will suspend operations Monday midnight, beginning the regular summer shutdown. Just how long the suspension will last depends upon a conference of glass workers now in session in another city. Word is awaited.

If there is no change from the custom which prevailed last year, there will be a suspension of the machines two weeks and of the other departments one month. However there is a possibility of a change. Both the Charleroi and California plants are in good shape. There is a good demand for ware, this having been responsible for the starting of the plant at California on March 5 of this year.

COMPLETE NEW STEEL TIPPLE AT ECLIPSE

This News With Announcement of the Transfer of Big Avella Holdings of West Virginia Company of Important in Coal World

Enabling the mine to handle a vastly increased tonnage a new steel tipple has been completed at the Eclipse mine of the Pittsburg Coal Company at Roscoe. It will be put into use the first of next week. It will now be possible to ship by both river and rail. The mine is one of the largest ones of the Monongahela valley.

This news with the announcement of the closing of an important coal deal in which the Rex Carbon mine, located just west of Avella, came into the possession of Cyrus Ferguson of McDonald and John Bell of Carnegie, were the outstanding features of the mining world in Washington county today. The work of cleaning out the entry of the Avella workings has just begun and it is believed mining will be resumed shortly.

Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Bell are connected with the Verner Coal and Coke company which operates a mine at Bulger and which recently took over the holdings of the Washington County Coal company at Cedar Grove Jefferson township. It is believed the Verner Coal and Coke company is behind the new deal. It is rumored that the branch line of the Pennsylvania Railroad from Burgettstown to Cedar Grove will be continued.

VICTROLA OUTFITS ARE SENT TO SANITORIUMS

Monessen, Charleroi and Donora People Contribute Toward Purchase of Instruments For Three State Institutions.

The patients at the state sanitoriums at Cresson, Mt. Alto and Hamburg will enjoy some good Victrola music this summer while undergoing the unpleasantness of isolation from home and friends. Through the generosity of Monessen, Charleroi and Donora people each of the places has been provided with a Victrola and plenty of records. The nurse in charge of the Monessen and Monongahela dispensaries has completed a canvas for contributions and records and other outfits are now being enjoyed at the sanitoriums. The valley has quite a number of people being taken care of at the sanitoriums. Last Saturday six children from Monesen were taken to Cresson and this week Jennie Johnson, a Monongahela child was sent to the same institution for treatment.

BASEBALL GAMES AND OTHER FEATURES AT CHURCH PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian Sunday school held in Oakland park Friday was largely attended and a pleasant affair. William Gelder, who went to the park in an early car had everything in readiness for the children. Two ball games were productive of much merriment. Dr. Edwin McKay proved himself to be a twirler of note using the latest curves and "spit" balls in his pitching. Robert Fitzmorris who was the slab artist of the afternoon game gave a fine exhibition of the art of ball pitching. The horseshoe games were hotly contested. James Dawson and Rev. Burson was the winning combination that walked off with the honors of the field. James Williams, who is an expert on soccer football was in his element, having played on Canadian teams. William Hudspith, who has the English tenacity for holding on, even had to give way when the sun got hot in the afternoon. The committee arranging for the outing was composed of George Leith, James Dawson and James A. Williams.

SCHOOL BOARDS SLOW SENDING IN REPORTS

Financial Statements Lacking From Many Districts Under Control of County Superintendent—Auditors To Blame in Some Cases

The school boards of Washington county are slow in sending in their annual financial reports to Supt. Cranmer's office, only 22 of the 57 secretaries having complied with the request made some time ago that they be sent in early. These reports are supposed to be all in file in the superintendent's office on or before August 1. A few not included in the list below have been so inaccurate that they had to be sent back for corrections which could not be made except by the respective secretaries. A few of those on file are slightly inaccurate but by diligent inquiry the needed corrections were made in the superintendent's office.

The districts having reported are as follows Beallsville, Blaine, Buffalo, Carroll, Coal Centre, Cross Creek, Cross Roads, East Finley, Elco, Fallowfield, Finleyville, Hopewell, McDonald, Mt. Pleasant, North Franklin, Nottingham, South Strabane, South Franklin, Stockdale, Union, West Bethlehem and West Finley.

In a number of cases the district auditors it is reported, are holding up the reports for various causes. This accounts for a number of the delinquents, it is said.

SERVED PATIENTS IS ALLEGATION

Father and Daughter at Washington Held for Illegal Doctoring

DO NOT POSSESS LICENSES

Angelo Colosi and daughter, Miss L. E. Colosi of West Chestnut street Washington were held for court by Justice of the Peace J. F. Carmichael Friday on charges growing out of the allegation that they were illegally posing and acting as physicians. They furnished $200 bail each for their apearance in court.

Miss Colosi was not placed under arrest nor were any charges made against her until Friday, although her father had been taken into custody on Wednesday. She waived a hearing. Miss Colosi is a graduate of an Italian medical school and has a midwife certificate but is not properly authorized it is claimed to practice in this state.

Her father, it is declared, has no right whatever to pose as a physician. At the hearing Friday numerous witnesses, all countrymen of his testified that he examined and prescribed for them when they went to the Colosi home for treatment for their ills.

The arrest of the father, which also led to that of his daughter, was brought about when some of his patients complained of exorbitant fees. This led to an investigation.

The Washington County Medical society is interested in the case and was represented at the hearing.

It is expected four new coal mines in the Marianna district will be opened when the new railroad is completed.

PSYCHOLOGY AGAIN

A [illegible] burg, N. [illegible] gun [illegible] down [illegible] and the Benet-Mercier machine gun by a [illegible] the Pittsburg Press [illegible] report to the War Department [illegible] board states its [illegible] that the Lewis gun showed superiority in every test over the Benet-Mercier gun, which is the [illegible] gun equipment of [illegible] army. This was particularly [illegible] sized in the night firing tests, says the Uniontown Herald.

Particular attention was [illegible] the sand and mud tests. The loaded magazines were filled with wet and dry sand and were fired without cleaning, except removal of such sand as fell out when magazines were shaken. The Lewis gun fired the required number of shots in one minute and three seconds, while the Benet-Mercier gun fired only eight or ten shots in five minutes of firing and went out of action for the balance of the tests, having become jammed and unable to continue the ordeal. The Lewis gun immediately thereafter fired 188 shots in 58 seconds, to demonstrate its functioning without the sand's being removed from the gun.

The most interesting test, however, was that which came when the magazines of both guns were filled with thick mud, guns remaining uncleaned after thesand test. The Lewis gun performed in 48 seconds, while the Benet-Mercier guns were unable to function after the sand test, and therefore did not even attempt to enter the mud tests. After the conclusion of these tests the Lewis gun fired 20 shots with deformed cartridges and battered shells in three seconds.

How the Benet-Mercier guns contrived to secure adoption by our government in competition with so greatly superior a weapon is presumably one of those things which are past finding out. But there is one theory which we are sure will be favored by students of psychology—namely, that a high-sounding name with nothing back of it won over a plain one with "the goods" in this matter as it does so often outside of the world of business.

THE HEALTH OF IMMIGRANTS

People familiar with immigrant life in this country remark on the pathetic physical decline that they so often undergo. They come over here robust animals, in buoyant health gained by work in the fields. They are strong as horses, and brown as Indians, says the New Castle Herald. The women are broad-backed, well able to dig ditches or plough the earth.

They haven't the least idea of conserving their health in the new surroundings. The majority work in poorly ventilated mills or mines. Many live in congested and unsanitary tenements. Those that work on farms fare better, but may not have the food they need.

At home they had an abundance of cheap farm products. In this country they find prices prohibitively high. Intensely ambitious to save money and return to the Fatherland when the war is over, they deny themselves nourishing meat and fresh vegetables. They seek consolation for hours of toil in revelries peculiar to their race and indulge immoderately in strong coffee and cigarettes.

The children of these people fare still worse. They early learn the taste of candy, ice cream, and coffee, which the parents feel out freely to keep the youngsters still. If they fall sick, a doctor may not be called until the rigor of death has set in. Then he is blamed for failing to save the child.

There is great need for instruction for these people in their own tongue on health and sanitation. It would not be difficult or costly to provide it. Doctors could easily be found who would willingly, for a small charge and from public spirit, to give them common sense talks to be translated by an interpreter. The community is vitally interested in having the second generation come up a strong and healthy race, and could well afford to give them a little help along these lines.

It is stated that a band of gipsies, locating at Wireton, in the face of the rejection of their application to tell fortunes, have been making the rounds reading palms. Upon complaints reaching the Monessen police station the burgess has issued orders to make arrests. The band cannot last much longer and continue their unlicensed practices. The band is believed to be the same that was refused admittance into Charleroi just before it went to Monessen. A strong argument was put up in order to get into Charleroi and copies of licenses and permits from other boroughs and cities were exhibited to prove the right. One was from Greensburg and another from Pittsburg. Whether they were bona fide cannot be said, but they looked it. Still the desire of the company plainly was to tell fortunes—termed palmistry. Boroughs need to be careful about such people. When they take the law into their own hands as they are reported to have done in Monessen the best thing is to give them a taste of that which they aim to defeat.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Robbie, walking across the fields with his father, saw a cow for the first time.

"What is that father?" he asked.

"That is a cow" was the response.

"And what are those things on her head?"

"Horns," replied his father.

The two walked on. Presently the cow mooed. Robbie was surprised.

"Which horn did she blow, father?" he asked.

A New York lawyer, gazing idly out of his window, saw a sight in an office across the street that made him start, rub his eyes and look again. Yes, there was no doubt about it. The pretty stenographer was sitting on the gentleman's lap. The lawyer noticed the name that was on the window and took up the telephone book. He called the gentleman up. A second later he saw the gentleman start violently and take down the receiver.

"Yes," said the lawyer through the telephone, "I should think you would jump."

The victim whisked his arm from around the girl's waist and began to stammer something.

"Yes," continued the lawyer severely, "I think you had better take that arm away. And while you are at it as long as there seems to be empty chairs in the room"——

THIRST TAMES WILD BEASTS.

Savage Brutes Respect Each Other's Right to Drinking Water.

Just as one dog will respect another dog's bone so even the fiercest forest beasts have their unwritten laws and their little conventions.

One common idea which has found its way into scores of books of adventure is that the lion and tiger take advantage of the insistent call of thirst to get a supper—that is to say, they go down to the water pool, the only one for miles around, take a good drink themselves and then lie in wait for some gazelle or giraffe or flock coming there for a like purpose in order to spring upon the unsuspecting victim while in the act of drinking and make a meal of it.

Yet this is a dubious estimate of wild beast character. The fact is that there is a spirit of truce at the water hole in every animal forest. As far as killing is concerned the drinking place is out of bounds. There is an invisible notice board on its banks which says, "Live and Let Live," and it is implicitly obeyed.

There is an order of precedence. The rhinoceros gets first drink. He is the Dreadnaught of the forest jungle. Then comes that old ironclad the elephant.

When he has lowered the tide mark and made the water more like coffee than anything else the big pussy cats stroll down to quench their ardent tongues—the lions, the leopards in Africa, the tigers in India, the jaguars and pumas in South America.

Meanwhile the shy animals—the giraffes, deer, springboks and even the buffaloes, although they are a match for a lion—stand in the background and wait till the carnivora have done. But the latter never prevent their approach to the water or waylay them on their retirement. And that is better manners—aye, and better morals—than many men show.—Pearson's.

INDIA'S FAMOUS ROAD.

It Was the World's Greatest Highway Before Rome Was Born.

Search where you will, you will find no highway in the whole world so romantic as the Grand Trunk road of India.

A stately avenue of three roads in one—the center of hard metal, the roads on each side ankle deep in silvery dust—fringed by double rows of trees, it runs for 1,400 miles through the vast northern plain which skirts the Himalayas, from Calcutta to far Peshawur, which keeps sentinel at the gate of Afghanistan.

From horizon to horizon it stretches like a broad white ribbon, as seemingly straight as if traced by a gigantic ruler. And dotted along its entire length are hundreds of serais (wayside rest houses), each with its arched and turreted gateway, its spacious inclosure, in which humans share shelter with oxen, camels and goats, and its central well of sparkling water.

For 3,000 years the Himalayas have looked down on this road and seen it as they see it today. It was the world's greatest highway before Rome was cradled, when the aboriginal Indians drove their cattle over the very spot where the motorcar dashes today.

Alexander the Great led his Greeks along it to the conquest of northern India, and Buddha himself took his daily walks along it centuries before Christ was cradled.

It has seen a hundred generations come and go, a score of dynasties rise and fall. And yet today it is to the eye exactly the same as in the long gone years when Nineveh was a proud city. —New York Journal.

Parrots of Mexico.

What the wild pigeon once was in point of numbers to the United States the parrot, of varying shades of color and all sizes, is to old Mexico. Flights of these birds frequently darken the midday sun in the hot country, and they become so tame around the camps of engineers that the birds are given individual names and soon become regular pets. Wherever the parrots desert the forest and alight on the ground in the open spaces of the jungle the natives recognize their actions as sure warning of an impending earthquake.

Mother's Work.

"Father, you always seem to be in a better humor when you come home at night than when you go away in the morning," said the daughter.

"Of course," replied the parent; "you see I have some money in my pocket when I come home."—Yonkers Statesman.

HUSBAND WELL MAN DECLARES MRS. BEAUMONE

Erie Woman Tells of Recovery of Spouse, After Taking Tanlac

"My husband is now a well man, after twenty years of suffering from the most terrible form of stomach trouble.

"For four months up to about a month ago, he had hardly been able to work. The last eight weeks of that time, he being almost helpless," said Mrs. T. E. Beaumont of 218 East Fourth Street, Erie, Pa.

"He bloated so after eating that I could not get his clothes around him and he suffered great pain through the bowels and from his kidneys.

"One day I picked up a paper and saw the advertisement of Tanlac. For several days afterwards he watched for the advertisement in which Erie people told of the marvelous recoveries from bad health of people who had been taking Tanlac.

"Finally, he decided to try a bottle.

"He took the medicine for a few days in a hopeless way, but the third night I was surprised to see him drop off to sleep and when I awakened through the night he was still lying in the same position and breathing as regularly as a child.

"The next morning when he awakened he was rested, his stomach was clear and he ate a hearty breakfast, the first one for many years. He digested this meal without any trouble. His bowel and kidney trouble left him. After he had taken three bottles he was entirely well, and is now going to his work happy and determined to get along."

Tanlac is now sold in Charleroi exclusively by Pipers Pharmacy, where the premier preparation can now be had.

DONORA MEN TO MANUFACTURE NEW REFRESHMENT PRODUCT

An application was filed Friday for the incorporation of a new concern in the Pittsburg district, backed largely by Donora men to be known as the Pittsburg Bludwine Company. The signers to the application for charter are Vinton Gallatin, Dr. J. Add Sprowls and Attorney D. M. Anderson. The company will be organized with a capital stock of $25,000 which will probably be increased later on. The new company has purchased the right to manufacture and distribute Bludwine products in the counties of Washington, Allegheny, Beaver, Fayette, Greene and Westmoreland and the intention is to erect a central plant in Pittsburg. Plants have already been established in Donora, McKeesport, Washington, Mt. Pleasant and Uniontown, which will be taken over by the parent company. Other bottling plants will be started in various parts of the territory controlled.

Knew There Were Fairies.

The Woman Who Saw has a little friend with wide open eyes and long brown curls. Sometimes when the Woman Who Saw is at her little friend's house and the other members of the family happen to be out of the room there is a chance for delightful little conferences. The Woman Who Saw always tries to make such opportunities, and she made one on her last visit.

Her little wild eyed friend had been watching for it now. In a flash she lighted upon the form of the Seer and whispered into the ear of the woman: "Do you know, I've seen fairies! Because"—excitedly—"I've had such a little swing for them on my desk, such a wee little swing of the tiniest bits of sticks and cobwebs. And—this morning the swing was all back of. And that shows that the fairies were in it last night, doesn't it?"

The Woman Who Saw leaned suddenly for that volume of Hans Christian Andersen and the window to fling out upon the credited—long ago.—New York Evening Sun.

His Palindrome.

A tourist traveling with a party of friends was seized with a sudden illness and was compelled to remain for some hours in a hotel. He insisted that the others must go out and enjoy the day and said that he would spend a few hours composing a palindrome—a sentence the letters of which are in the same order whether read forward or backward.

"All right," said one of the party, "but you'll never beat the sign I saw in a country store when I was a boy and red root was in some demand:

"RED ROOT PUT UP TO ORDER."

When the party returned the sick man's face wore a triumphant smile as he handed the following lines to his friend:

To prove himself a dashing maid,
Ned a bold, dangerous task essayed.
And when he came in triumph home
She answered with a palindrome.
Ere half his fervent plea was done,
"Now, Ned, I am a maiden won."

England's Most Beautiful Village.

When Sir John Gorst succeeded his brother in his Wiltshire property he became the owner of what is held, in the west country at any rate, to be the most beautiful village in England. All visitors to Bath are supposed to have misused their opportunities unless they have been to Castle Combe, and indeed the sweet little place is so extensively visited, although it is five and a half miles from any railway, that during the summer months provision is made on the last day of the week for from 800 to 1,000 trippers. The surrounding scenery is not less picturesque than the village itself, and to those who are interested in such matters there is also the attraction of a long history. The church of Castle Combe, which is ancient, has been restored without being spoiled.—Westminster Gazette.

Balzac and Dumas Literary Foes.

It is said that Balzac detested Dumas. Once he brought to the Siecle the manuscript of a novel, which was to follow "Les Trois Mousquetaires," then being published. He asked to be paid 2½ francs a line. The director of the journal hesitated. "You see, M. Dumas is being paid only 2 francs a line." "If you are giving 2 francs to that negro I shall get out!" And Balzac stalked off.

Dumas was not ignorant of Balzac's feelings toward him and did not spare him. In the foyer of the Odeon theater Balzac was talking loudly in a group of literary men, "When I have written myself out as a novelist I shall go to playwriting." "You can begin right away," called out Dumas.

A Bad Boy of Colonial Days.

A notebook of a justice of the peace in Connecticut in the year 1750 specifies the behavior of a certain small meeting house boy as follows:

A rude and idel behaver in the meting hows such as smiling and larfing and intiseing others to the same evil.

Such as larfing or smiling and pulling the heir of his nayber benoni simkin in the time of publick worship.

Such as throwing Sister Penticost Perkins on the ice it being Saboth Day or Lord's Day between the meting hows and his plaes of abode.—Bliss. "Side Glimpses."

Great Scheme.

"What do you do?" asked the one who had been married only a few months, "when your husband comes home late at night?"

"I pretend not to notice that it's late, and pretty soon he asks me if I wouldn't like to go to the theater or somewhere tomorrow afternoon."

Two of a Kind.

"I hope you liked that pudding, Mr. S.," said the stern mother-in-law. "Poor, dear Clara took great pains with it."

"Did she?" exclaimed the son-in-law with an expressive movement of his hand on his stomach. "So did I."

Consequences.

He—My first wife never objected to wearing the same suit two seasons. In fact, she never objected to anything. She—I suppose not. After she had lived with you for awhile she didn't even object to dying. — Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Too Simple.

Salesman—That car is simplicity itself. A baby could run it.

"Nothing doing. I'd like to have something our baby can't run."—Puck.

Character must be kept bright as well as clean.—Lord Chesterfield.
